Dining Area with Puja room

Every space of the house is opened up to the wide view of the river, thus the layout was defined by volumetric proportions and large openings towards the outside view. Along with that the double height living is designed accordingly that it blends with the outside view. A free standing staircase in the middle of the large central of the living and dining area is the element that adds a dynamism and contradiction to the effortless planning of the house. Similarly, at the upper floor each bedroom is connected to the common corridor which overlooks the lower floor living area. Every interior space has the wide deck which is designed with all natural material so that it can connect with outer view of the river, and that natural material gives the interior the sustainable and raw look. Addition to that the décor and furniture used in interior is astounding and modernist which again looks voluminous but by also giving enough wide large open spaces.

Hence, the outcome of the design reflection was quite sustainable by using all live materials like Acoustic Natural Stone, Wood, Italian Marble, etc. This had given Interior space the Luxurious and elegant gaze.
